

UNIVERSITY OF KRAGUJEVAC
Faculty of Philology and Arts
S Y L L A B U S
Programme	56: English Language and Literature
Course Name and Code	English Morphology (56032)
Course Structure (lectures, seminars)	lectures (2), seminars (2)
Year of Study	II
Academic Year	2020-2021
Semester	fall
ECTS Credits and Course Status (mandatory or elective)	5 ECTS (mandatory)
Instructor(s)	Jelena Danilović Jeremić
Course Requirements	/
Course Aims	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - to become acquainted with morphological theory - to understand the core concepts (e.g. morpheme, allomorph, lexeme, word-form, productivity) - to acquire the basic skills needed for the identification and description of morphological processes in English
Course Overview	The subject of morphology. Words, lexemes, word-forms. The morphological structure of words: the root, the base, the stem, derivational affixes. Morphological classification: simple and complex words. Morphological processes. Inflection, derivation. Word-formation. Composition, conversion, blending, clipping, back-formation, acronymy, reduplication. Lexical paradigm. Grammatical categories. Grammatical paradigms.
Grading System (including segment percentage)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - class participation (10%) - mid-term test (40%) - final test (50%)
Textbooks and Mandatory Reading	Mandatory: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Plag, I. (2013). Word-Formation in English. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. - Stageberg, N. (1981). An Introductory English Grammar. New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston, pp. 129-165. - Kvačanović, N. (2000). A Workbook in English Morphology. Niš: Filozofski fakultet.