

(PhD)
Programme	LINGUISTICS AND LITERATURE
Course	Linguistic and literary theories
Cours structure	2
Year	I
Semester	1
ECTS credits	7
Professor	Prof.dr Tijana Asic
Goals:	Helping students acquire the necessary data about the history of linguistics from the Old age up to the XX century. Teaching basic notions of the theory of signs, writing systems and language principles and concepts.
Objectives:	making students understand the development of language theories both in fundamental and applied scientific approach. The comparison of ancient and modern linguistics. Building new concepts from the well known old hypotheses and positions at all the levels of linguistic investigation.
Content	Old age linguistics : Sumer, China, Indian, Israel, Ancient Greece and Rome. Medieval philosophers and linguistics. Renaissance philological tradition, Cartesian linguistics, Leibnitz approach, Humboldt s language theory, Comparativistic approach, Meeting F. de Saussure ; Students seminars and discussions.
Evaluation	Participation 10, seminar 40, exam 50
Bibliography	R.H. Robins, 2020 A Short History of Linguistics (Longman Linguistics Library) Lyle Campbell , 2013 Historical Linguistics: An Introduction (Anglais)