

(PhD)
Programme	LINGUISTICS AND LITERATURE
Course	Semantics
Cours structure	2
Year	1
Semester	2
ECTS credits	4
Professor	Prof.dr Tijana Asic
Goals:	Helping students acquire the necessary ideas about the history of semantics and its modern approaches. Comparing the formal and non-formal semantics and building a theory of meaning in the communication and thinking.
Objectives:	Making students understand the development of meaning theories from the ancient time up to the XX century monteguan apporach. Showing the similarities and differences btw structuralistic, cognitive and formal approach in semantics. Introducing the basic Compositionality principle.
Content	The history of semantics. Structuralist semantics.Word semantic relation and lexicology, Cognitive semantics. Basic theories of meaning, The principle of Compositionality, Pressuposition and Logical implication, Moore s paradox, Formal linguistics, Lambda calculus, Semantics, syntax and pragmatics.
Evaluation	Participation 10, seminar 40, exam 50
Bibliography	Daniel Altshuler , Terence Parsons , 2019 A Course in Semantics (The MIT Press) Hardcover – September 3, Lyons, Semantics,CUP, 1977